MRS. CHRISTIANCY'S EXPLANATION.

More Developments in the Scandal and More Coming-Blood's Opinion of Giro-The Affair Getting Sadly Mixed-The Latest Phase of This Queer Case.

The publication of Mrs. Christiancy's letters to Christiancy divorce scandal. A REPUBLICAN news gatherer yesterday succeeded in finding Mr. Oliver in his office, and inquired if there was any thing new in the case. He answered nothing to his knowledge, except that he would like to have the public know that on the 19th and 22d of May of last year he received letters from Mr. Giro, in which he requested him (Mr. Oliver) to prepare the questions, as he wished to make a deposition in favor of Mrs. Christiancy. He appreciated her situation, he said, and thought he ought to do all that he could to assist an innocent woman. He thought this statement was due to show that this man Giro was not reliable and his testimony should be taken with a great deal of allowance.

MRS. CHRISTIANCY S EXPLANATION of her relations with Giro, as told to a reporter yes-New York, she says he insisted on visiting her; and finally, despite her protests, did come to Washington on Christmas Eve, 1879. In company with Miss Meloy she met him at the Baltimore and Potomac depot when the four o'clock train from New York arrived. He went to the St. James Hotel, and they went on a shopping errand.

Subsequently, meeting Giro on the street, they dined with him at Harvey's, and accompanied her to her home and remained there a short time, during which he asked her to keep the jewelry for him as he did not like to leave it at the hetel. Afterward he asked her to accept the jewelry as a gift, but she declined. The next evening he visited her between four and five o'clock; said that 1,885 59 there had been a woman with him at the hotel and 72 65 | some one had said that it was Mrs. Christiancy. He By order of the board of managers of the Mutual | then insisted that she should marry him. He left, but returned to the house again about eight o'clock in the evening, told her that some one was dogging her footsteps, and threatened that if she did not marry him he would say that she was the woman who had been with him at the St. James. As she refused to take such a step, he swore vengeance and became so violent that to pacify him she told him that she would marry

The comhim. Giving him the jewelry, he left the house, saying he would consult a lawyer. The next day chairman. she telegraphed him to stop all legal proceedings, and subsequently wrote that it was impossible for her to marry him. He returned here in January and urged her to reconsider her action, and, as she was inexorable, became very abusive and threatened to ruin her.

When she heard that proceedings for divorce would be instituted against her, she wrote to Giro, at Kingston, in Jamaica, and, as he was dilatory in answering, in her fear of the man she wrote the gushing letters, having been advised that the only way to hold him wasto pretend to be in love with

BLOOD AND GIRO. So far, besides ex-Senator Christianey, only three personages have gained any great notoriety in connection with this scandal. Two of these-Mrs. Christiancy and the Spanish adventurer, Girohave made their statements, and they have been given to the public. The third party, Dr. Charles the in regard to his knowledge or part that he took in the watter. He is onite a handsome man. The reputation of the citizens here was at in the matter. He is onite a handsome man rately and at reasonable prices at COUGH-LIN'S DRUG STORE, Masonic Temple, corner of Ninth and F streets northwest ence. His eyes and hair are dark, the former rather close together, and the latter rolling back from the forehead luxuriantly. He has an agreeable address and the air of a gentleman : he talks readily, possesses no little attraction in conversation, and, all in all, he is a very pleasing personage. Blood has at last spoken, and this is what he communicated to a New York reporter: I have known Giro for nearly three years, and must say that at one time I had the utmost confi dence in him. He came to me and offered to go into business with me. I had never said a word him about a partnership, and indeed I had thought of such a thing. Well, we went into busi ness together and we prospered. So far as the busi-ness was concerned, we never had any trouble or misunderstanding; all our difficulty was about Mrs. Christiancy.

Giro had a desk in our office, and whenever he received a letter from Mrs. Christlaney he at once made it common property. He would read the let-made it common property. He would read the let-ter aloud to Mr. Barnum and myself or to any ac-quaintance who might be present. But he was not content with this, and would bring persons into the office and amuse them with the letters from Mrs. Christiancy. His desk was adorned with her photographs, and it seemed to afford him ex-traordinary satisfaction to call attention to these pictures, and then tell of his flittations with Mrs. Christianer. This counduct appeared so utterly base to and so thoroughly the act of a charlatan that I became disgusted with him, and then the rupture came and Giro had me arrested for selling medicame and Gro had me arrested for selling medi-cines without a diploma, and I was discharged.

The way in which Mrs. Christiancy was made to write to Giro is one of the most contemptible things I ever knew. They first met, as you know, on the steamer, when Mrs. Christiancy was return-ing from Lima. After they had lauded here Giro wrote to Mrs. Christiancy, requesting the privilege of calling upon her. She replied that, while she of calling upon her. She replied that, while she appreciated his attention on the steamer, she had no desire to continue the acquaintance, or, at least, not to know Mr. Giro any more intimately than she had already known him.

Giro was not to be put off with any such reply, and at once set about devising a method to force his attentions upon Mrs. Christiancy. He took a woman to Washington with him and stopped at the St. James Hotel, where he told the bell-boys and all others that the lady was Mrs. Christiancy.

and all others that the lady was Mrs. Christianey. Having created this impression, he wrote to that lady and told her that he would blast her reputa-tion unless she allowed him to call. She was livng alone, deserted by her people and persecuted by her husband. Consequently she became rightened and acceded to his demand to visit her, and then the correspondence began.

Mrs. Christiancy detests Giro, and always has had a strong dislike for him, but she feared him, and so continued to write to him. I have seen all the letters that passed between them, and have frequently seen him spend a whole day in composing a letter to her. I am of the opinion that the nmn's whole intention towards this woman was blackmail, for when Christiancy began a suit for divorce, Giro sent me to Mrs. Christiancy with the information that Christiancy had offered him $2,000 to testify against his wife, but if she would give him $3,000 he would testify in her behalf. I know this, for I bore the message myself. Previous to this, however, he had told both Mrs. Christianey and myself that he would stand by her through any and all troubles, and that he would pay the expenses of the trial. How he kept that promise

From this you cannot have a very high opinion of Giro, 'said the reporter.

"Well I should say not," replied Dr. Blood, "and that isn't half. Why Giro has confessed to me that he has committed acts that would land him in prison if he could be prosecuted for them. These deeds have been done in South America and in deeds have been done in South America and in this country. I know personally, too, of many things that he has done, which, to say the least, are far from the conduct of an honorable man. Just read this as an example," and Dr. Blood handed the reporter the following slip clipped from a Washington paper:

night, of $2,500 worth of jeweiry."
"Is this the same Giro?" asked the reporter. "I have investigated the matter and am convinced that it is. The Giro who committed this robbery was in Moyamensing prison for fifteen days, when Mr. Ogden ceased proceedings against him for certain powerful reasons."

"At what time was this robbery committed?"
"During the trouble of Mayor Hall." WHAT MADE GIRO MAD.

The relations between Giro and Blood seem to 1416 F STREET, between Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets, has

> Mrs. Christiancy. After his second arrest Giro made another affidavit, in which he averred that made another aindayit, in which he averred that Charles L. Blood was the regularly appointed attorney and agent of Mrs. Christianey, and in support of the statement called attention to a letter from Lawyer Oliver to his lawyer, Mr. Loekwood, referring, it is stated, to the jewelry loaned Mrs. Christianey, and saying that the matter was entirely in the hands of Dr. C. L. Blood.

FISHING FOR FACTS. Senator Christiancy, and now agent of the ex-senator in this city to manage his private business, is ator in this city to manage his private business, is supposed to have all the secrets of the plaintiff's side of the case locked up in his besom. It is understood, also, that he will shortly be examined before a commissioner in this city and give important evidence for the plaintiff, which will tend to refute the testimony of Holschuh, the hotel clerk, as to the identity of the lady who visited Giro at the St. James Hotel. A REPUB LICAN angler was sent out in the street after br Ball last evening, and found him at his residence, on Capitol Hill. The Doctor was very guarded in

"It is said that you know considerable about the case," remarked the angler. "Yes, my name has appeared in connection with the ease several times," replied the Doctor, dodg-You will be examined this week, I hear," coninued the angler.
"You can hear anything."

"I understand that your testimony will be in efutation of that given by Helschuh," said the ander, desperately.
"Well, wait till I'm examined, and then you can see who tells the truth," replied the doctor.
"It is said that you were at the St. James when the lady came to see Giro," persevered the reporter.
"The newspapers have published many things," rejoined the doctor. "We do not care to enter into any newspaper controversy. The only article we have ever published so far or caused to be published in any shape or manner was a little article which appeared in an evening paper. Shortly after, proceedings were instituted deprecating any newspaper controversy. We felt that we had a just cause, and proposed to try it in the court, and not to influence public opinion before it was tried."

The inaugural committee on civic associations held a meeting last evening in the rooms adjoin-Edilberto Giro has revived public interest in the ing the National Metropolitan Bank, Mr. L. P. Mr. Hill made inquiry if anything had been done in regard to what disposition should be made of the semi-military organizations known as the Grand Army and Boys in Blue, and whether or not the military committee was to have charge of Mr. Worthington, from the committee on mili-tary organizations, by invitation addressed the committee. He said that he had been sent from the conference committee to consult on this matter. Many thought these organizations should be assigned to the care of the military committee. Mr. Hill moved that the question be referred to the conference committee for their consideration. General Mussey was unable to see why the mem-bers of these organizations should be considered any more belonging to the military committee's care than the members of the Society of the Army of the Cumberland. He moved as an amendment "that the conference committee be instructed that terday, is rather singular. After leaving Giro in it is the views of this committee that the military committee should have charge only of regular soldiers and sailors and uniformed military." The amendment was accepted, and the motion was adopted.

A special meeting of the School Board was called last evening to take action upon a communication from the committee of public comfort for the approaching inauguration, requesting the use of the public school buildings in the District for quartering such military and civil organizations that would visit Washington to participate in the inauguration ceremonies. Eleven members of the board were present, in addition to Mr. W. J. Stephenson, chairman of the committee making the prepared.

As soon as called to order Mr. Curtis said that in given to the public. The third party, Dr. Charles L. Blood, who has figured as the mutual friend between Giro and Mrs. Christianey, has said but litthe facilities of the city would be taxed to the utstake, and no matter if the use of the buildings die inconvenience the children for a few days they would be repaid by the good wishes of the strangers they had cared for.

Mr. Stephenson was then asked what arrangements had been made for removing furniture, re pairing damages to the rooms, &c., and in reply said no expense would be incurred in such matters by the District, as the committee would pay for all Mr. Matthews said the board was not prepared to act upon the application, as by their roles it would require two-thirds of the entire board to sanction the use of the building for any but school purposes. Only eleven members were present, and the most they could do would be to talk the matter wer without taking action.

Mr. Lloyd then offered a resolution to the effect that the steam-heated halls and play-rooms should be granted for the purpose asked.

Mr. Lovejoy offered as a substitute that the dedication of school-buildings to any but school uses had never taken place, not even to afford shelter to wounded soldiers during the war, and, while as individuals they were in sympathy with the object of the committee, yet they did not feel author-ized to divert the school-buildings to any other than their present use.

Before a vote was taken on either proposition, Mr. Mr. Brooks raised the point that no quorum was

Mr. Fairley thereupon moved the reference of he communication to the beard committee on buildings and repairs, with instructions to report at the next regular meeting. This seemed to meet the approbation of the members present, and the reference was made, after which the board ad-

Mrs. Laura Dainty's Reading. The few who braved the drizzling rain and the slippery walking last night and attended the Metropolitan M. E. Church were well repaid for their courage and perseverance by the readings, or rather recitations, of Mrs. Laura Dainty. This lady is from Chicago, and came highly com-mended as an elecutionist of more than ordinary ability. Her performance last night was given under the most disadvantageous circumstances. The musical aid which had been promised failed to put in an appearance, and the entertainment consisted entirely of her own efforts. She gave a programme of eight numbers, and the selections were as follows: "The Kentucky Belle;" "Christmas at the Quarters," from Scrib-ner's Mouthly; "A Naughty Little Girl's Views of Life in a Hotel;" "Poor Little Joe;" "How the Old Horse Won the Bet," Oliver Wendell Holmes;
"The Brakenan at Church," from the Burlington
Hawkeye; "The Volunteer," and "How He Saved
St. Michael's."

Mrs. Dainty has a pleasing face and figure, is lady-like in her bearing and manners, and brings to her readings a quick intelligence and a clear, flex-ible, well-modulated voice. She seems to appear to the best advantage in comedy, and in the sec-ond number her initations of the negro dialect were perfect, and was loudly applauded. In "Poor Little Joe," however, she gave some exquisite touches of pathos, and at the conclusion evidenced genuine dramatic power. It is to be hoped that Mrs. Dainty may be again heard under more favorable auspices, and when the entire burden of the entertainment will not

A general discussion ensued over a proposal to rent rooms on the Awnue for the reception of veterans coming to the inauguration, and a com-mittee was appointed to secure those over Lewis ohnson & Co.'s bank. Mr. Tanner stated that, In view of the fact that civilians had been assigted to the duty of looking after the military as well as civil organizations, it behooved the club to take steps to secure the ap-pointment of a committee on veterans. He then offered the following resolution, which was "Resolved, That it is the sense of this club that in the preparations for the coming inauguration the eption and care of veteran organizations visiting Washington should be intrusted to a separate subcommittee of veteran soldiers and sailors, and not placed in the hands of civilians." Mr. George Holmes submitted almotion, in which it was declared to be thesense of the Veteran Club that the District of Columbia was entitled to repesentation in choosing their rulers.

Mr. Parisen moved that, as the hour was late, the subject be laid on the table for future action. Agreed to, and the club adjourned. Festive Fmit-Growers.

The fruit-growers held their annual meeting resterday at noon in Tallmadge Hall. The election of officers to serve for the ensuing year resulted in J. McC. Perkins, the defendant in a suit for slan- the choice of Dr. S. A. H. McKim, president; H. ham curator. The executive committee chosen were Messrs, J. Orville Johnson and W. H. Main, and Mrs M. D. Lincoln, Mrs. Indiana Cowling, and Mrs. M. K. Weaver. At night the annual festival and entertainment took place in Tallmadge Hall, which was beautifully decorated for the occasion Dr. McKim, the president, delivered a brief address; the annual report of the secretary was read: Misses Annie Kennedy and Clara Bender per-formed on the plano; Mrs. Siddons and Mr. Philps gave a parlor entertainment; speeches of a min-ute's length were made by some of the members, and the whole entertainment closed with an ele

Faneral of Surgeon Wells. The funeral of Surgeon J. C. S. Wells, U. S. N., took place yesterday at one o'clock from his late residence, at the navy-yard, and was very largely attended, many distinguished officers of the navy being present. Rev. Charles D. Andrews, of Christ P. E. Church, officiated. After service at the house, the casket containing the remains was borne to the hearse by eight sailors from the United States iron-clad Passaic, as body bearers. The pall-bearers were Surgeon-General Philip S. Wales U. S. Hutchinson, 40; W. M. Ghit & Co., 450.

A Horse-Trader Charged with Swindling. Officer Breen yesterday arrested Kit Hunter, a horse-trader, on a charge of swindling an old man named Thomas Caesar out of a cart and mule. It s alleged that Hunter gave Caesar a worthless check for $70, and when the latter returned and said it was not good he was given a promissory note for ten days for $68 and $2 in cash. Hunter did not take up his note, whereupon Caesar swore out a warrant against him for swindling.

A. H. Smith, Hon. W. A. allace, Hon. J. A. Kilinger, Pennsylvania.

The following Distct inventors were wasted retained by the control of the lot waiting orders to form in line. Of this number about one hundred were filled with masked individuals so thoroughly disguised that their mothers would not have known them. THE START.

Finally a start was effected, the sle'ghs going in single file down the Avenue to the Capitol gate and returning to the corner of Seventeenth street years old, was found early esterday morning in the street in Georgetowiseriously ill. He was and speeding of crack trotters was the order of the and speeding of crack trotters was the order of the remainder of the afternoon.

Considering the short notice, the carnival was a perfect success, the only drawback being the presence in line of a number of hacks and carriages which were in everybody's way. The crowd on the sidewalks received accessions every minute until it eventually surged out into the street, and the maskers were obliged to confine themselves to Justice Hagner veterday ordered a a limited space through the wall of human beings. Every one seemed bent on having a good time, and bore the elbowing and crowding in the best of humor. As a particularly comical subject would approach it was greeted with great enthusiasm, hats and handkerchiefs waving, and catcalls from juveniles, which created a din second only to the famous confusion at Babel. Among the

FEATURES OF THE CARNIVAL were a donkey drawing a small jumper wagon on runners, the occupants (two youngsters) personat-ing an aged colored couple. A crowd of shouting gamins followed this turnout all the afternoon. but the patient donkey apparently paid no attention to them, but ambled contentedly along. A tandem team, consisting of a horse and mule, drew a sled, upon which was scated a robust specimen inscribed "Bernhardt." Astride the horse was Manager Abbey, while something having a label "The American Press" kept the mule straight. A long, lank specimen personated Brother Jonathan, and kept "Sally" from falling of ther sled off her sled. A large family sleigh contained six persons in white robes, who styled themselves "Spirits from

he other world."
The smallest sleigh in line was a doll carriage on runners, drawn by a King Charles spaniel, who was attended by four little boys dressed as grooms. The most original, as well as comical display, The most original, as well as comical display, was that made by the owner of a gray trotter. He had rigged up a sulky on runners, to which was attached all the appliances used in treating a trotting horse. The horse's feet and neck were swathed in red flannel and toe-weights, which, with ankle-boots and knee-pads, made up as awkward a looking animal as one could desire. The driver wore a jockey suit surmounted by a cap, the visor of which was about two feet square. Wherever this turnout appeared it was the signal for great hilarity, and even the horse indulged in a high at the sorry figure he cut. Another amusing figure was that of a Duich emi Horner, of mixture fame, and drew the late Dr. Horner, of mixture fame, and drew the lines over a sorry-looking specimen of a jackass. The sled upon which the emigrant was scated was on a level with the street, and the Teutonic driver was kept busy "shooing" off boys who wanted to ride were represented: Messrs. Wimple, Smith & Co., lumber dealers, had a sleigh of barn-like propor-tions and a brown paper house inscribed "A good place for shelter;" Christian Heurich had out an immense beer vat, astride of which was an image of Gambrinus; R. H. G. Bouis, the stove dealer, produced a substantial sleigh filled with mechanics vearing stove pipes and armed with the para-phermalia of their line of business. The committee of arrangements were represented Messrs, A. T. Whiting and C. W. Thorn as Judy and Punch respectively, L. Moxley, Captain Kidd, and M. Willian, a Russian nobleman. Colonel Boyd, the chief marshall, was attired as Rex Carnicallo, and Colonel J. O. P. Burnside, one of the judges, looked every inch a Santa Claus. Other sleighs contained caricatures of the following prominent personages, who were readily reognized: President Hayes, President-elect Garfield, General Sherman, ex-Secretaries Belknap and Robeson, and General Butler.

WITHOUT MASKS. In the line were a number of sleighs whose ocenpants were not masked, and as The Republi-can's representative dashed by in a handsome Portland cutter, drawn by a Clay colt, he recog-Portland cutter, drawn by a Clay colt, he recognized General E. F. Beale in company with Mr. Wash Nailor, who was showing the pace of his crack four-year-old; C. C. Duncanson and a large party in a double sleigh; Messrs. James P. Willet and George Oyster behind a clipped bay, which appeared always ready for a brush; Mr. Allison Nailor with his handsome pair of Arabiaus, over whose necks fingled a set of Russiau chime sleigh. those neeks jingled a set of Russian chime sleigh tells; Mr. Charlie Earl holding in a fast bay mare; Messis, Tobe Hudson and Clarence M. Barton be-hind a two-thirty rag; Mr. John Wanstall handling the ribbons over a pair of fast blacks, and a host of others who appeared intent on getting somewhere with their flyers.

Notwithstanding the fact that the Avenue was thronged on both sides with sight-seers, but one accident occurred. A stranger from Baltimore, while the stranger from Baltimore, and the stranger from t while endeavoring to get upon a street-car at the corner of Tenth street and the Avenue, was knocked down by a passing sleigh and cut slightly about the head and body. He was taken into the Fifth precinct station, where he washed off the mud and blood and continued his journey.

A FAST DRIVER. Numerous trials of speed took place, the owners of fast trotters seeming determined to show the crowd how quick they could travel. Only one driver came to grief-John Eagleston, owner of the trotting stallion Trump. He was going at a clip-ping gait up the Avenue, greatly to the delight of the crowd, when Officer Kirby overhauled him and took him to the station-house for fast driving. Tenth street was quickly blocked up with sympahizing friends, and when he was released on $20 collateral they crowded around him and congratu-lated him that he had not ended the carnival in a cell. John took it all in good part, and seemed partly compensated for his twenty-dollar drive.

At a consultation of the judges last evening the prize set of sleigh-bells were awarded to Mr. W. H. Garges, of East Washington, for his display of a trotting horse and accoutrements.

A WORD ABOUT REDUCTIONS.

That our prices are as low as any that can be named is plainly demonstrated by the increased business we have done during the past few months. That the public appreciate our mode of doing business, viz:

One Price, marked in Plain Figures, is also clearly evident. We cannot afford to reduce our prices from 30 to 40 per cent., for the reason that we have never marked them with such margins, and we do not propose to transact business without a profit. Compare our original BLACK figures, which were never MARKED up, with the MARKED DOWN prices of others, and be your own judges,
